Subject: CMS Delays Release of PSI Measure Data

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) has identified an error in the calculation of the CMS Patient Safety Indicator (PSI) measures; updates to these measures were to appear in the October 2023 Care Compare release, which has now been moved to November 2023.

With CMS's commitment to data accuracy, CMS PSI measure data will not be updated for the November release. Instead, the November 2023 Care Compare release will continue to display previously released CMS PSI data.

The corrected data will be provided for preview during the January 2024 preview period; that period is scheduled to occur during October 2023.

Note: No additional data or actions are required by providers.
